Program Overview

Donate Now

Pledge Now

In 1985, the AATS established a two-year research scholarship awarded annually to a North American surgeon committed to pursuing an academic career in cardiothoracic surgery. The AATS Foundation's Research Scholarship provides one early-career investigator with a two-year grant of $80,000 each year to pursue research, training and clinical experience. This program is designed as an early-career development award for young surgical scientists. Successful applicants will receive complimentary registration to an AATS Annual Meeting where they will be recognized during the AATS Foundation's Reception.

Guidelines

- All applications will be subjected to a rigorous peer-review process, which will be established and overseen by the Program's Review Committee.
- The yearly stipend shall be $80,000 paid to the host institution for support of salary, research supplies, travel and other legitimate academic expenses of the scholar.
- The stipend is to be used for direct salary support and related research expenses only; it cannot be used to support indirect institutional costs.
- The Scholarship will begin July 1 of the award year and conclude on July 1 two years following. The scholar shall submit an interim and a final written report of his/her research activities to the Board of the Foundation.
- After completion of research, investigators will be required to submit a final report of their research activities and findings to the AATS Foundation Board.
- All publications emanating from the research must include acknowledgement of the award.

Successful grant recipients will be required to provide a mid-term progress report outlining their progress to date prior to receiving their second year of support, the following may be used as a guide:

Suggestions and Guidelines for Interim Progress Report

- Briefly list the specific aims of the project.
- Indicate what you expected to have done at this point in the project cycle.
- Describe the barriers to progress to-date.
- Update your project plans for the second year.
- Indicate how you expect to continue or complete this research project.
- Describe plans to submit a manuscript/grant proposal or some other tangible mark of progress in the coming months.
- If available, submit any tables, figures or graphics from a report or paper you are working on.
- Feel free to add any additional information that will support a second year of funding.

All applicants will be notified with an official letter from the AATS Foundation within 3-5 months of the program deadline. Should you have any questions regarding your status prior to receiving this notification, please contact foundation@aats.org.
